Lot worse problems, says mgr.

PLEASANTON — A cynic would say it's just his first day on the job, but Clay Brown, the city's new manager, was still smiling by 4 o'clock yesterday.

And since he started the day at 7:30 and faced a probable midnight overture with the City Council, the 4 o'clock fete should dispel the most sullen cynic.

"I've been looking forward to it for a month," he says. "I've been anxious to start, and I've spent some time over here for the last few weeks."

He and the family moved from Palo Alto, where he was assistant city manger, last week.

"I'd never been a commuter, and I don't intend to take it up now," he says with the history of his penchant for sports cars adorning the office wall.

"The Jaguar (an immaculate V-12) doesn't get the best mileage."

The Jag was preceded by a Jensen - Healy (in two stages) and, for the purist, a stately Austin - Healy. The photo assembly joins three of wife Kay's impressive macrame hangings and a pair of his pen and ink drawings.

A majestic Sitting Bull burned in wood oversees all.

"I'll spend the first few weeks becoming familiar with the people and what's going on," he says turning to business. "That'll take all my time and then some."

He'll also be house hunting. And while that prospect looms awesomely before those who have seen prices skyrocket, Brown finds them, "I almost said reasonable. Compared to the outrageous prices in Palo Alto, they seem reasonable. It's still incredible."

That menagerie of city problems — growth, the LAVWMA line, the sewer moratorium — fit a similar mold.

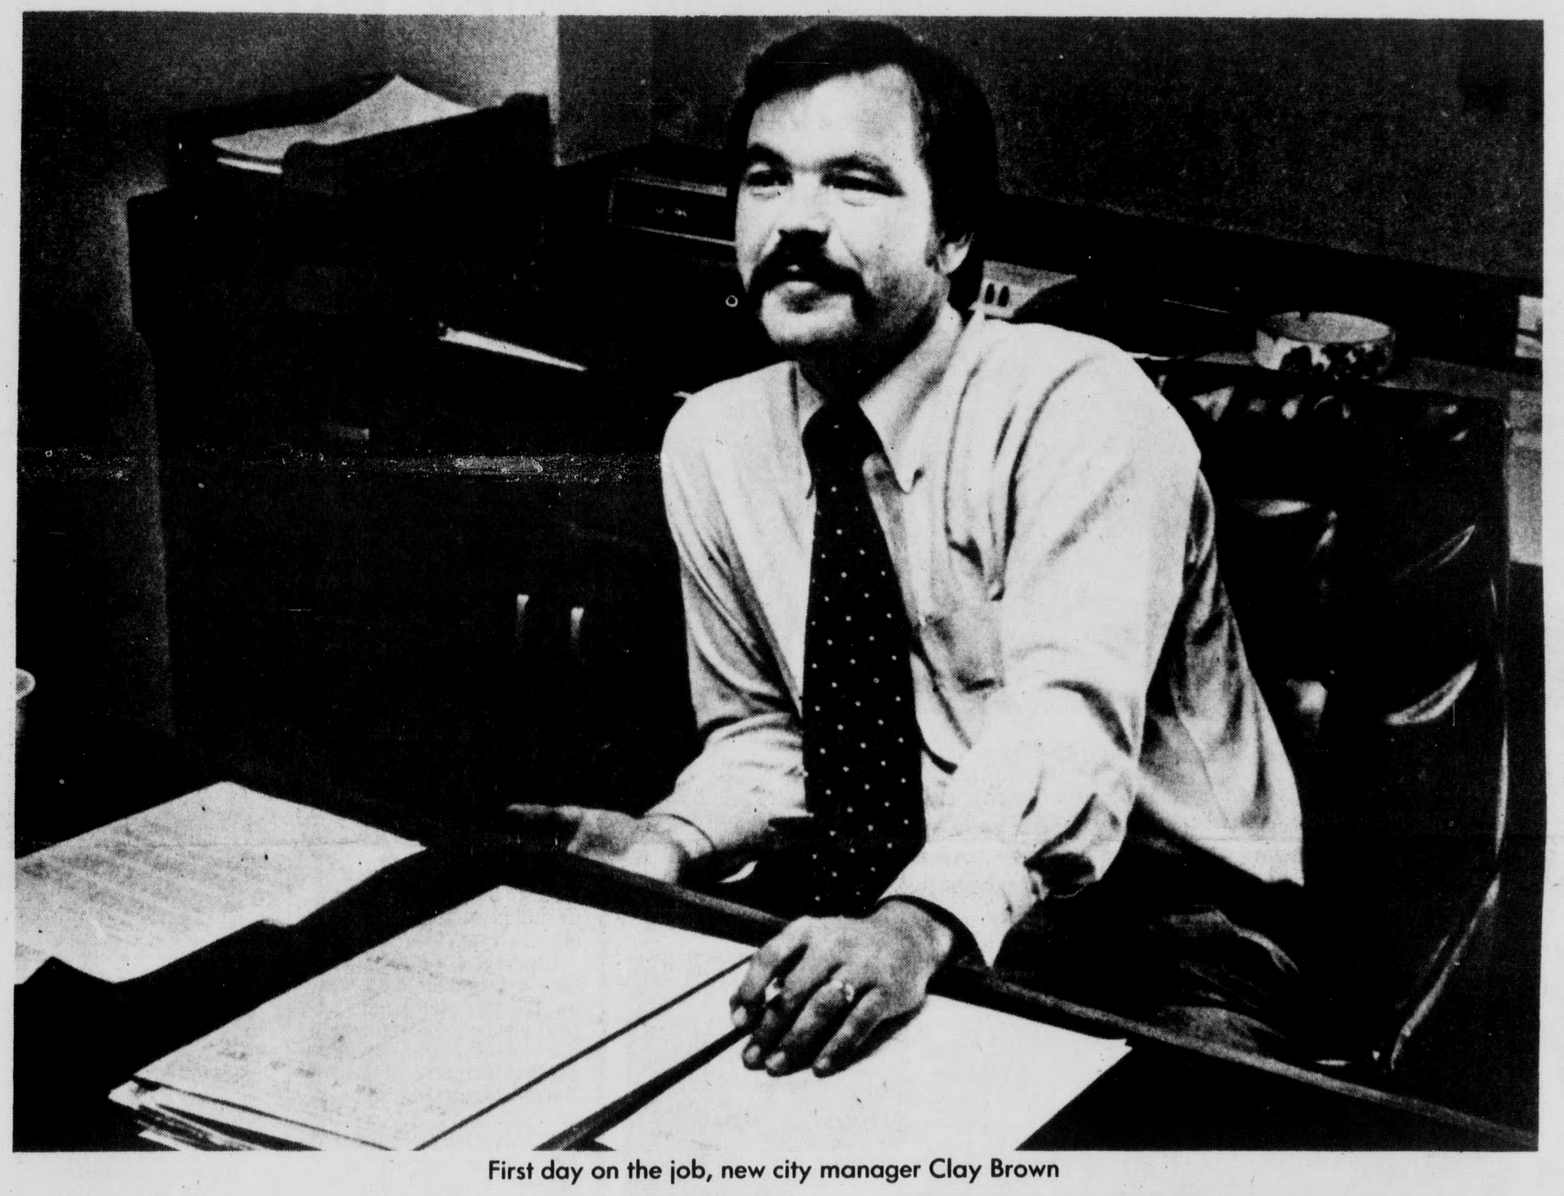

"I can think of a lot worse problems for cities to have," he adds. "Some face bankruptcy. A lot of them lack the ability to meet community needs.

"But the key thing here is that everything is going toward a solution," albeit different groups are heading in different directions, he concedes.

"The problems are being confronted, not ignored. That speaks well of Pleasanton. The city has recognized its problems and is dealing with them."

At 35, he'll be making a reported $33,500 a year. He replaces Bill Edgar, who became an assistant city manager in Sacramento earlier this year.

He's a native of Minnesota who grew up in North Dakota and earned a master's degree in public administration in Texas. He served as an assistant city manager in Phoenix before moving to Palo Alto.

Busnap hearing

Charge that sheriff dept. went too far

OAKLAND — Lawyers for the three defendants in the Chowchilla bus kidnap case yesterday argued that search warrants used by police to gather evidence were invalid.

In the first day of a hearing to determine whether enough evidence exists to send the case to trial, defense attorney Herbert Yanowitz pointed out several alleged errors in the police affidavit describing the evidence obtained.

Attorneys for the defense also attempted to show that an Alameda County Sheriff's investigator was out of his legal jurisdiction when he took down license plate numbers at the home of Fred N. Woods III, father of defendant Fred Newhall Woods IV.

Charged with kidnapping and robbery in the July 15, 1976 busnap are Fred Woods IV, 25, James Schoenfeld, 25, and his brother, Richard Schoenfeld, 23.

The trio is accused of kidnapping a busload of 26 Chowchilla schoolchildren and their driver, taking them to a rock quarry in Livermore and burying them in an abandoned moving van trailer. The hostages dug their way to freedom and the suspects were arrested days later.

Sheriff's Lt. Ed Volpe testified he was in an unmarked police car in Livermore when he heard a broadcast about "people being buried in the sand at Cal Rock (quarry.)" He drove to the spot and found bus driver Ed Ray, who said, "I'm the bus driver from Chowchilla, and these are my kids," Volpe testified.

Yanowitz asked how police could refer to the suspect Woods on at least four occasions as "Fred Woods III," who is the defendant's father and owner of Cal Rock.

The defense attorney showed slides of the entrance to the Woods' estate to Sheriff's Sgt. Bernie Cervi, emphasizing the number of "No Trespassing" signs along the route. Cervi said he remembered seeing none of the signs.

The 17-year sheriff's department veteran said he was dispatched to the Woods estate at the request of the defendant's father, who asked police to remove trespassers from his property.

While on the Portola Valley estate, Cervi spotted a blue and white dump truck that was later contained in the search warrant request but was not seized by authorities. Yanowitz apparently plans to use this fact as a basis for a mistrial due to alleged improper search and seizure procedures.

The defendants, looking pale, sat quietly throughout the hearing. Testimony will continue today in department 13 of Alameda County Superior Court. —by Bill Cauble

Complex receives approval

PLEASANTON — Two thorny planning problems were plucked from city council's side last night. But one may lead to a bushel of litigation.

In successive motions, council approved Paige Binkley's 28-unit complex at Black Avenue and Hopyard Road, and turned down a neighborhood appeal to re-route the Del Valle Parkway.

Pleasanton Safe Streets Association Spokeswoman Jan Opdahl said her group, which opposed Morrison Homes' 65-house development along the Del Valle Parkway, would "probably go ahead with an injunction" to stop the city.

After bitter wrangling, council voted 3-2 to deny the appeal and accept the planning commission and planning department recommendation. Councilmen Ken Mercer and Frank Brandes wanted at least to continue the decision.

The neighborhood association claims the four-lane Del Valle Parkway linking Hopyard Road and Stanley Boulevard will be unsafe. They want it re-routed to follow the contour of the Arroyo Del Valle.

Binkley unlocked a two-week old stalemate when councilman Bill Herlihy returned to break a 2-2 vote.

Councilmembers Joyce LeClaire and Frank Brandes held their line and voted against Binkley's proposal.

You can take your parking lot and...

LIVERMORE — "You can KEEP your parking lot!"

That's the gist of a petition circulating among downtown merchants in the wake of an announcement their rent on the city lot off South Livermore Avenue may double, or worse.

About 60 merchants are asking to get rid of the lot rather than pay parking assessments which are due to increase in September. Located behind a string of shops along First Street, the lot is currently being rented from realtor John Regan and a group of associates. Rental price is going from $616 a month to $1,368.

Chipping in for the rental are about 60 businesses along First Street between the flagpole and L Street and along J, K and L beteen First and Second Streets. Also affected are Dom's Surplus and the bar on South Livermore just below First.

The only Second Street business forced to chip in is Knodt's Flowers, which faces Second Street and has its own private lot on K.

"I don't know why," sighs owner Bob Rumberger. "Maybe because we have a door facing First. But it's only a delivery entrance.

Father, son killed in truck-car crash

LIVERMORE — Two members of a San Ramon family were killed early Sunday morning when a tractor-trailer rig struck their disabled car parked on the shoulder of Interstate 580 near Fallon Road.

Dead are Alfred Forrest McVey, 30, and his six year-old son, Donald of 9899 Del Mar in San Ramon.

According to a California Highway Patrol spokesman, the driver of the truck apparently dozed off about five minutes after midnight before his rig collided with the small Mazada parked near the westbound lanes of I-580 about a half mile east of the Fallon Road exit.

Emergency lights on the Mazada were said to have been flashing when the rig rammed it.

The impact injured the truck driver, Gerald Richard Tagge, 30, of Stockton, and McVey's wife, Pamela Jean, 27. Both are listed in good condition at Valley Memorial Hospital in Livermore.

Five year-old Kimi McVey escaped injury and has been released from the hospital.

The tractor, registered to Milton Goebel of Stockton burst into flames according to the highway patrol.

The accident is still under investigation.

Search for new VMH director

LIVERMORE — The Valley Memorial Hospital board is looking for a new member from anywhere in the Valley to replace Emily Schwarz, who just resigned.

Not long after joining the hospital board in February, 1975, Mrs. Schwarz was called away to her native Austria when her mother died. She returned to Livermore a year ago and left again last fall, planning to be back for this year's July meeting.

She has decided to stay permanently in Austria, where her son is attending school, she told VMH board chairman Joseph Sladky in a letter received Wednesday.

Her three - year term would have been up in February, 1978. The new board member will be appointed by the remaining eight VMH directors to fill the unexpired term, with the probability of being re - nominated and running unopposed for a full term in 1978.

Any VMH corporation member may apply for the seat since Mrs. Schwarz was an at - large member of the board. "We're looking for someone with area - wide interests," Sladky said. "Great and important decisions have to be made by this board member. It's not going to be looked at lightly."

Board members work on individual issues in committee, usually bringing a well - researched recommendation before the whole board for action. "We do our in - fighting in committee," Sladky said.

Anyone interested in the post, who has given VMH the requisite $100 donation to become a corporation member, should contact a board member by phone or letter to indicate a willingness to serve.

A nominating committee will be set up at the July 21 public hospital board meeting. In August, the committee is due to return with the name of a suggested appointee.

Board members spend about 10 - 15 hours per month on hospital business, said the chairman. "It's a very unpolitical board, and the best board I've served on," he added.

To the obvious question of why Mrs. Schwarz had not resigned sooner, since she seldom got to a meeting, Sladky said cautiously, "She had her reasons which were important to her."

She originally ran against Tom Schweser of Dublin, a board - nominated candidate, basing her campaign on opposition to the proposed medical center planned to be built in Pleasanton.

When it became evident that Livermore was not going to lose Valley Memorial in favor of a bigger and better facility, the issue faded in importance to Livermore members.

Board members checked with their attorney to determine whether Mrs. Schwarz could be forced off the board because of her absences. But nothing in the by - laws required her attendance at meetings.

Currently, the board is changing the by - laws so nothing like it will happen again.

Lab officer files suit on grievance

LIVERMORE — A letter from University of California President David Saxon to Lawrence Livermore Laboratory Director Roger Batzel is the basis of a lawsuit filed by a Lab protective service officer in Alameda County Superior Court last week.

Alan Guilbert says Saxon denied his appeal of a grievance hearing decision, then wrote to Batzel that there was a "lack of clarity" on the issue and that the two week's suspension without pay "seems excessive."

According to the suit, Guilbert had asked that he not be made to work overtime on a given date last August. When the day came, he was awakened from his sleep and told to report. He refused, and was suspended.

Guilbert filed a grievance in the matter, but was denied by a three-member hearing panel appointed by Batzel. The decision was upheld in an appeal to Batzel.

On Feb. 8 of this year, Guilbert appealed to Saxon, the last step in the appeal process. Saxon denied the appeal on May 24, stating that no interpretation of Batzel's decision was needed.

But in a letter also dated May 24, allegedly from Saxon to Batzel, the UC president reportedly was not satisfied with the grievance hearing report.

"The hearing committee's report does not resolve that contention (Guilbert's claim of being allowed not to work a particular day) in a very satisfying way," Saxon reportedly wrote. "Given the lack of clarity on this issue, the penalty of two weeks' suspension without pay seems excessive."

The one-paragraph letter is headed, "In confidence."

Based on the alleged letter, Guilbert's lawyer, Andrew Thomas Sinclair of Oakland states that "President Saxon did in fact render an interpretation of Director Batzel's decision denying the grievance."

If the claims are upheld in court, Sinclair states in the suit that "it will clearly establish that President Saxon abused his discretion in exercising adjudicatory functions."

Rage over parking lot

The petition is labeled, "Request to Withdraw from District." It says, "We do not believe that the District provides a useful benefit to the undersigned, and, in addition, consider assessments excessive."

Mel Luna, who started the petition, collected his 50th signature on it yesterday afternoon. "Not a single refusal to sign," he said, thumbing through the signatures of dozens of merchants. "We've had a great response." He says even council members are interested in ditching the lot altogether.

Luna's antique shop has been on First Street for the past three years. Although there are parking spaces painted right behind his shop's rear entrance, he can't use them. They are reserved for employes of the county building also owned by Regan.

All merchants in the parking district received notices from the city of intent to raise the fees. John Bird, owner of the Flying Chef, pasted his notice near the big signs announcing that he's going out of business.

Across the street at Blaisdell's typewriter service, the same white notice was hanging in the window with "Ripoff" written across it.

JoAnn Martin at the Village Canteen was thinking of hanging up her notice, too. "The city told us they had absolutely no money for off - street parking, yet they had plenty of money for parks," she said yesterday.

STUCK TO AMERICA'S BUMPER

The American public's favorite means of communication is stuck to its' bumper. The feelings and thoughts expressed there span the range of human concern, and tell the story of what Americans care about most.

Religious beliefs are a favorite theme to cover the chrome. "One Earth, One Spirit, One Humanity" on a Ford, may be followed closely by "This car and its occupants have been saved" on a Chevy.

The religious "I Found It" campaign inspired answers such as "I Lost It," "Who Needs It?, and "What is it?""

There are messages of hope, such as "Happiness is Coming!" and "Families are Forever," and "Open the Bible, Free Prize Inside."

There are love notes: "Jesus Loves You," "God Loves You," KSFO Loves You "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman Loves You" and "John Loves Jane and They Both Love Michelob" and "Milk Drinkers Love Longer."

Pride of nationality shouts: "Damned Right, I'm Italian and "I'm Proud to be Polish" (Or Swedish, Irish or Portuquese).

The "Happiness is . . ." series includes "Happiness is Being Single," "Happiness is Being Married,""Happiness is Being a Christian," and "Happiness is Playing Tennis."

Power is advocated by "Black Power," "Senior Power," and "Twinkie Power."

Some bumpers warn other motorists of inherent dangers: "Caution while passing. The driver of this car chews tobacco."

There are statements in support of beauty. "Gross is beautiful."

And those in sympathy with the environment: "Don't Start Forest Fires," "Save Our Whales," and "Don't be Wrapped in a Fur that Was Trapped." The Group Against Smoking Pollution has the sticker: "G.A.S.P...Nonsmokers Have Rights Too."

There are helpful stickers such as: "Female wanted. . Inquire within" and "Sex instruction given here. First lesson free."

The "Honk if..." series include: "Honk if you like Coors," "Honk if you're a Christian," "Honk if you like Tennis," and "Honk if you're a Grateful Dead Fan," as well as "Honk if you're a Latter-Day Saint."

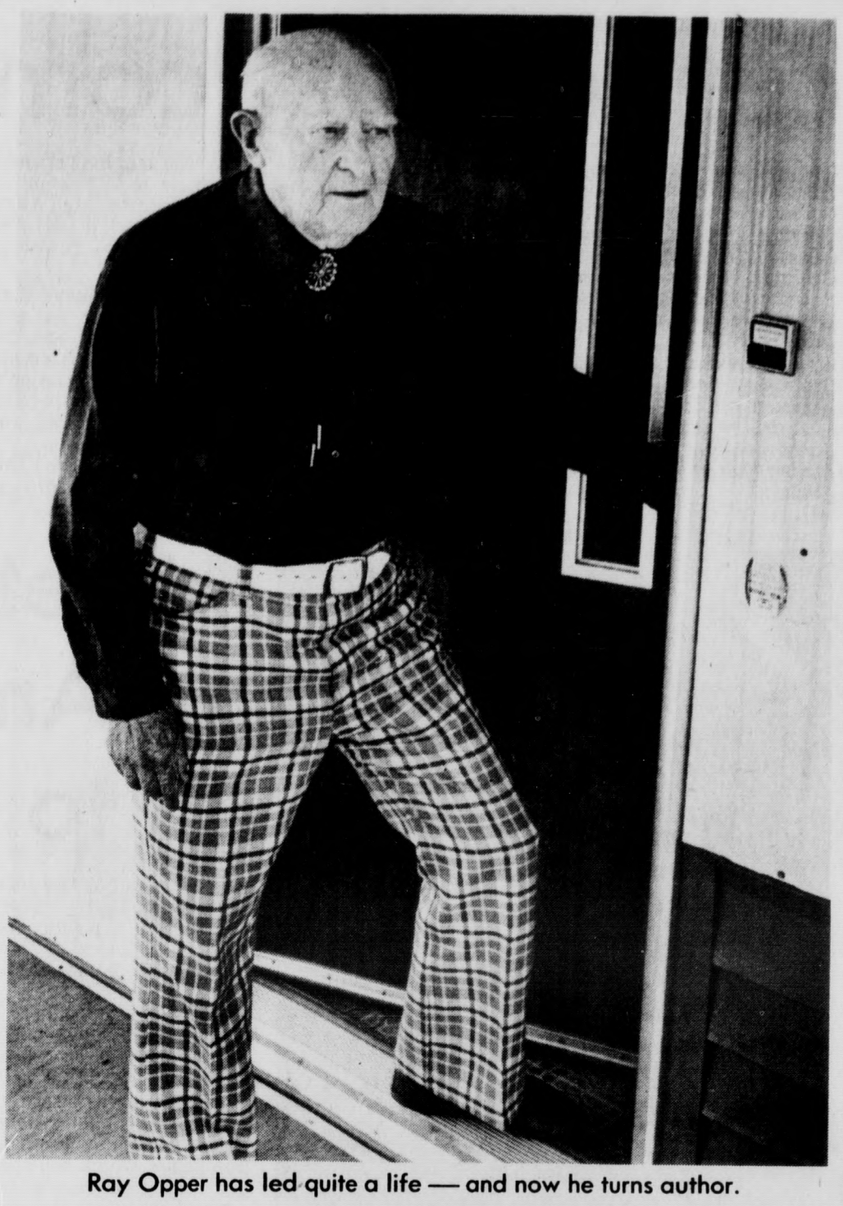

Information on occupations runs rampant: "Firemen are always in heat," "Cowboys ride harder" and "Service station attendants pump harder."

There are complaints. "I'd rather be playing tennis," "I'd rather be taking pictures," "I'd rather be skiing," and "I'd rather be sailing."

The "it" bumper sticker messages inform us "Weavers do it on a loom," "Divers do it deeper," "Cowboys do it on a horse," and "It lasts longer if you do it in cement."

Women's libbers put forth the idea "A Woman's place is in the House and the Senate," and they comfort us with "Trust in God. She will provide."

There are also messages seemingly from the car itself, written across a dusty fender, the plea "Wash Me," always visible from the rear as America drives away, adding "Freedom of the Bumper" to the lists of liberties revered by a nation on wheels.

Ray Opper has led quite a life — and now he turns author.

Ray Opper

Inventor turns author

Ray Opper comes from a hardy stock of old-timers who had little schooling but managed just the same, through perserverance and talent, to make a good living.

Today Mr. Opper is working hard on his memoirs — a task the Pleasanton resident finds doubly challenging because he is now blind.

With the help of volunteer Pat Halliday, who types his tales of World War I Army days and how he made ends meet, as a banker, on a $75 monthly salary, Mr. Opper is already looking for a publisher.

The active senior citizen, who sings with the Livermore Senior Citizens and enjoys the Pleasanton V.I.P.'s weekly programs, is also responsible for founding a local chapter of Inventors Workshop International.

A businessman-turned-author, Mr. Opper has designed all kinds of things in his spare time, from an automobile smog controller to turning signals — which he thought up in 1916 but failed to patent, much to his chagrin today !

The 88-year-old still attends meetings of the Inventors Workshop, but concentrates now on getting his memoirs on tape. The veteran of such jobs as an Illinois bank manager at 20 years of age to a cotton picker and managing the payroll of over 66,000 soldiers during World War I,Mr. Opper also recalls his first job.

"I was making 60 cents an hour as a newsboy," he says, " and I'll never forget that year because President McKinley was murdered."

And if you give him a minute to think about it, Mr. Opper can probably tell you the exact date and time when he heard the news of McKinley's death. The possessor of a razor-sharp memory, Ray Opper can still remember vivid details about his years as one of the Mojave Desert's original homesteaders in 1920, and the hardships he endured trying to make the payments on it.

"I walked six miles for water and lived on oatmeal," he recalls. "I couldn't afford to send for my wife, and the only company I had was a mule and some horses that showed up now and then."

Today Mr. Opper enjoys the air conditioned comfort of his mobile home — but there's no doubt that his thoughts are sometimes far away, as he remembers a lifetime of rich experiences.

Initiated by Betsy Lavelle and Rosemary Stroud, the program will involve volunteers like Tillie Hoover, Louise Shaw and Bunny Moffett (left to right) calling shut-ins every day to make sure they're in good health. Volunteers are still needed, and the ladies currently working with "Ring-a-day" take turns calling shut-ins one day a week.

Care for candles

Candles can be an important, or even romantic, touch to outdoor summer dining. But there's a few things to remember if you'd like to preserve them as long as possible..

For starters, store them in a dark place, and lay flat to prevent warping. Keep them dry, and make sure the wick is trimmed to one-half inch. Char wicks before a party or dinner — candles will light easier.

Trim candles that are too big for holders with sharp knife under hot water. Use aluminum foil or florist's gum to make small candles fit holders.

Don't exposé candles to light for long periods of time — they'll fade. And, if you have to clean old candles, use an old nylon stocking or a little salad oil on a soft cloth.

PTA views TV violence

Television viewers across the country are awaiting the networks' fall lineup of programs. And so is the PTA — for a special reason.

The organization will be monitoring TV shows as part of the national PTA's First Action Plan, and it will tabulate the types and amounts of violence that flash across the nation's TV screens.

Beginning this month, the PTA will be training members across the country, conducting sessions to educate members on the broadcasting industry.

As they monitor TV programs, PTA members will use specially-designed tally sheets to record as violence all incidents in which a human or animal either hurts another human, animal or property or forces action on threat of being hurt or killed.

Members will even catagorize types of violence, i.e. physical violence (fighting, choking), violence to property (arson, crashes) or weapons used (knives, bombs).

The PTA, according to national president Grace Baisinger, has in the past made demands for "less gratuitous violence, and more quality and diversity" on TV. And although networks have hinted they will cut down on TV violence, she says, "under no circumstances will the PTA accept sexually-oriented programs as a substitute for violent programs."

If the amount of TV violence isn't reduced, the PTA says that it may begin boycotts of advertisers and local stations or file lawsuits to stop the violence.

A 45 cent tax cut request coming today

WALNUT CREEK — Property owners how would you like to see a 42 to 45-cent cut in Contra Costa County's tax rate?

Tuesday afternoon, the Contra Costa Taxpayers Association will recommend to the Board of Supervisors a tax reduction of between 42 and 45 cents in the levy rate.

James L. Cawdrey, executive vice president of the association told members of the Board of Realtors here on Friday that he believes the tax rate could be cut by that figure range.

Cawdrey told the realtors that supervisors could reduce county taxes by even more than they might propose on Tuesday. (The county administrator has proposed a budget that calls for no new tax increases and supervisors have discussed the Bay Area cost of living rate, 7.5 per cent, and possible growth of taxes compared to that figure.) Cawdrey said the association has hired a budget analyst and he has done a remarkable job reviewing county tax authority budgets.

But, Cawdrey urged public support at budget hearings, especially the county meeting at the supervisors chambers in Martinez on Tuesday.

"Generally all taxing authority boards hear are people asking for more. They need to hear people come out and say 'no' to further spending." In may be the same old song about public involvement at budget hearings, but it "does work," according to Cawdrey.

Cawdrey said he knew of one case where people turned out at a budget hearing to ask for a one-cent cut and instead received an 11-cent reduction.

"The Board of Supervisors needs your support. Be there on Thursday," Cawdrey said.

Discussing taxes in general, Cawdrey told realtors "there ain't no such thing as a free lunch!" He said all tax monies whether state, federal or local all come out of the taxpayer's pocket.

"It use to be that you robbed from Peter to pay Paul, but now you have to robbed from both." Cawdrey, who said his personal tax motto is "Taxation is theft," commented that current tax relief bills are an example of robbing from both.

He told his audience that assessments are not the problem, budgets are the problem. Cawdrey said his work and the association's main aim is the inspection and review of taxing authority budgets.

Cawdrey informed the realtors there are 301 taxing agencies in the county.

He discussed the problems he faces trying to receive copies of proposed budgets from such authorities as cities and school districts. Cawdrey says budgets will always be ready tomorrow or state law is quoted to him about the withholding of budget information.

He hit out at the often said comment, "but, it was mandated." Cawdrey said that is a scapecoat comment. "Tax money is all yours."

And he also lashed out at that statement, "but if we don't take it, somebody else will." Cawdrey said that kind of thinking is wrong. "We must stop that type of thinking."

Cawdrey praised the work of the board and vice president Cecelia Brown for work on informing the public of property tax growth in the county.

Metafil is a metal - coated glass fiber which can be manufactured in large hanks or as a continuous roving of several hundred filaments. Depending on the application, these fibers can then be pre-chopped to the desired length, woven or chopped in process. MB Associates of San Ramon discovered the new process .

MBA announces plastic breakthrough

SAN RAMON — A breakthrough has been made by MB Associates (MBA) of San Ramon in producing plastics which have high electrical and thermal conductivity while retaining high tensile strengths and low costs associated with conventional glass-reinforced plastics.

MBA stated in a newsletter this new discovery will increase the number of applications in which plastics can replace metals.

According to MBA, their new process has achieved low electrical resistivities that will provide shielding against electromagnetic interference (EMI). Such interference is a constant threat to computers, TV sets and many other types of electronic equipment.

The new conductive fibers sell for as little as $2 per pound. Other types of conductive fibers sell for $50 per pound.

Work is continuing on applying the process to other plastic - forming processes such as sheet molding, injection molding and extrusion.

MBA officials stated the new conductive "metallo - plastics" should be useful in a wide range of industries including electronics, computers, automobiles, hospitals and much more.

MBA spokesmen said they have received inquiries about the use of lightweight plastic conductors for space applications and lightning shields for aircraft.

Athletic guidelines for Amador schools go to district

The Amador Valley Joint High School District board will receive a position report on athletics at their meeting tonight at district offices.

Trustees convene at 8 p.m. in the district board room, 123 Main St., Pleasanton.

Neil Sweeney, assistant superintendent for instruction, will present the position paper, which will spell out rules and regulations agreed upon by the district's three athletic directors. Sweeney said the paper is a followup in part to the overall concern of students and due process.

"Our goal is to get some conformity between the three schools in the district on the matter of rules regarding participation in athletics," said Sweeney.

Sweeney added that meeting with the athletic directors at Foothill, Dublin and Amador Valley emphasized the need for adistrict policy with regard to discipline and eligibility.

Trustees will also conduct a public hearing on the classified employees' salary re-opener proposal.

Manuel Calderon, a resident of the Jensen Tract near Amador Valley High, will address the board on an alleged litter problem that has cropped up again in that area.

The district is proceeding with plans to install security persons at Dublin High and Foothill High. On the agenda tonight is a request to lease a trailer site at Dublin to a LeRoy Werner.

Intent of the action is to provide security against vandalism during night and weekend hours. The district already has a security watchman at the Amador campus.

The Amador board will also hear a building report, discuss a smoke detection system, execute a contract with Ric Art for painting Amador and Dublin, hear second reading of revisions of classified personnel policies, adopt starting and ending times for the 1977-78 school year, adopt a list of textbooks, and act to reject a claim concerning Foothill High School.

Livermore High to stage "Annie'

LIVERMORE — The Wild West was never the same after Annie Oakley hopped on a horse with her guns, but the recreation of that era will liven up the Livermore High School stage July 28, 29, 30 and August 3.

"Annie Get Your Gun," directed by Victoria Stadelhofer, is the story of a prairie ragamuffin who challenges the Wild West Show marksman Frank Butler to a shooting match and wins.

Butler, played by Paul Hudson, cannot stand being outdone by a lady (Annie is played by Robin Fisher), and soon leaves the Buffalo Bill show to join the competition, the Pawnee Bill Wild West Show.

With both shows facing bankruptcy, merger becomes the only answer including the marriage merger of the two sharpshooters.

Night performances are 8 p.m., with a 1:30 matinee on Aug. 2. Performances will be in the school auditorium. Admission is $1.50 for adults, $1.00 for students.

Also in the cast are Tony Ratcliffe, Sitting Bull; Jeff Simpson, Charlie Davenport; Kathy Rounds, Dolly Tate; Mark Schroepher, Foster Wilson; and Dave Gilmer, Buffalo Bill.

Music director is James B. Heiner. Vocal coach is James Brockman. Choreography was by R. Donald Springer and Victoria Stadelhofer.

Teachers try to make math fun

BERKELEY (AP) — Children who haven't yet learned to write numbers are mastering basic mathematical concepts with the help of rubber frogs, dinosaur eggs and electronic calculators.

And the youngsters, starting at 4 years old, are learning to like math, says Arthur Kessner, a University of California mathematician. He developed the system in collaboration with Dr. David Miller of UC's School of Education.

Calculators aren't intended to replace traditional teaching methods, but they're a valuable aid, Kessner and Miller report.

Concern of some educators and parents that calculators are a "crutch" rather than a teaching tool is unjustified in the new highly structured system, Kessner said.

"Adults normally use calculators for speed and accuracy. We use them to teach children the logic on which the calculator is based. We don't use the calculator as a shortcut for computation."

Parents alienated by some "new math" procedures in the past should have no difficulties in helping their children with calculator homework, Kessner said. He said one study shows seven out of 10 households already have one calculator, which can be purchased for as little as $5.

The calculator program for kindergarten and first graders has been tested for three years in 29 classrooms involving 800 students in California, Massachusetts, Minnesota and Texas.

Independent evaluation by Syracuse University showed the calculator-trained children did just as well on most tests as control groups without calculators, Kessner said. The calculator children did significantly better on other tests, he added.

"But the most significant data comes from teachers," Kessner said. Teachers report students enjoy doing math with the calculator programs, "which are a good deal like games," Kessner said.

For example, kindergarten youngsters learning to count use a calculator with only the one, zero, plus and "clear" buttons showing. As they pick up a plastic frog, they say "plus one more" and push the plus and one keys — with the new total showing in the display window.

Chiropractic Health Hints
BY DR. RAYMOND SERAFIN, D.C.
A NATURAL HEALTH FAMILY PRACTICE

IF YOU DO NOT ENJOY GOOD HEALTH

CONSULT YOUR CHIROPRACTOR FIRST

YOUR HEALTH DEPENDS ON THE NERVOUS SYSTEM

This column has frequently referred to "normal nerve function." We will probably use the term many times in the future. Today we will answer the question: "What is normal nerve function?"

In spite of what you have read, there is not much mystery about it. The purpose of this article is to set forth briefly in clear, understandable English how your health depends on your nerves and how those nerves can be kept in normal condition.

The nervous system of the body is like an electrical system. The brain produces nerve energy, or nerve impulses, just as a dynamo creates electrical energy. The nerve impulses are carried down through the spine and out over the nerves to all organs and parts of the body.

So, the nerves are like a system of wires that carry electricity to the points where it is to be used. The organs of the body do their work only because the nerves bring to them nerve impulses, just as electric machinery works only when electricity is carried to it over the wires. So, the nervous system must be in normal condition if the many parts of the body are to do their normal work.

In other words, a normal body depends on normal nerve function. Disease begins where anything interferes with the normal function of the nerves.

What do chiropractors do? They examine the spine to determine whether any of the vertebrae are out of normal position, thereby causing pressure on nerves that lead to vital organs and other parts of the body. When they find a spinal bone out of place, they adjust it to normal position to relieve the spinal nerves from pressure which interferes with their normal work.

Now you will understand why these spine specialists have been so successful in restoring diseased bodies to normal health. It is because of their skill in locating points of pressure on nerves, and removing the pressure, so that the nerves once more can do their normal work of carrying vital impulses to the organs of the body.

Chiropractic is applicable to a wide variety of diseases that effect the body and mind.

For more information on THE NERVOUS SYSTEM call Dr. R.J. Serafin DC at 846-4732 or write 60 Mission Dr., Pleasanton.

A's sidestep the cellar

OAKLAND — The Oakland A's had been on the bottom once before this season, and they obviously didn't relish the thought of once again becoming a barnacle on the Seattle Mariners' hull.

Faced with the prospect of falling into last place, the A's increased their edge over the seventh-place visitors with an 8-1 win before a half-price crowd of 8760.

Joe Coleman got the win for the A's after throwing six shutout innings and Bob Lacey, who came on in relief during the seventh, picked up a save.

After starter Joe Coleman set the Mariners down in order in the top of the first, Rodney Scott wheedled a full-count walk from Tom House to lead off the A's half of the inning.

House, however, held the often-daring Scott close with a trio of pickoff tries and the threat ended quickly when, after bunting the first pitch foul, Marty Perez grounded into a double play.

Left-fielder Lee Stanton slapped a one-out grounder through the hole at short in the second inning for Seattle's first hit, but he, too, failed to last long on the bases, as Jeff Newman threw him out trying to steal.

The A's first hit counted for a bit more as Rich McKinney, yo-yoed between Oakland and San Jose so often he may demand a mileage allowance, drove his sixth major league home run of the year halfway up into the left-field bleachers.

Fittingly, the scoreboard, slowly regaining its power after being shut off for last week's Day On The Green, had finally lit up as McKinney strolled from the on-deck circle to the plate as if cueing the first-baseman to give it something to do.

With one out in the last of the fourth, McKinney rolled a foul ball down the left-field line — and went to first. Mariner catcher Bob Stinson had gotten his mitt on McKinney's bat for interference.

It was an unspectacular start to the A's biggest rally of 1977.

Jim Tyrone followed McKinney with a rip past shortstop for a single, McKinney stoppin at second. Armas then engaged House in a foul ball duel before rolling into a bases - loading error by Seattle shortstop Craig Reynolds.

With John Montague rapidly trying to get warm in the Mariner bullpen, House walked Tim Hosely on five pitches to score one run and Newman drive in two more with a single up the middle, forcing Mariner skipper Darrell Johnson, a resident of nearby Pinole, to make the change.

Scott was the first Athletic to face the right - handed reliever and he bunted his way on to again load the bases. It was then Perez's turn to knock in a couple with a sinking liner to right that advanced Scott to third as well as increasing the A's lead to 6-0.

Manny Sanguillen made an out, after seven A's had reached safely, but not without inflicting further damage. His fly ball to right scored Scott and gave the A's their highest scoring inning of the season, six runs.

Before the game, the A's placed outfielder-first-baseman Mike Jorgensen on the 21-day disabled list. Jorgensen was hit on the left wrist by a Wayne Simpson fast ball last week in Anaheim and a second set of x-rays revealed a fracture.

To fill his place on the roster, Oakland recalled rookie Sheldon Mallory from San Jose. In 17 games with the Missions, Mallory battd .262, scored 13 runs, drove in 17 more and stole three bases.

In 36 at-bats with the A's, Mallory is hitting .306, but went on the disabled list May 20 with, what else, a fractured wrist.

Policemen lose in Senior TOC

DANVILLE — Any hopes of a showdown between the two top Senior League teams in Livermore were averted last night when Centerville National ripped the Livermore American Police Association, 15-1, in District 57 Senior Tournament of Champions action at Monte Vista High School.

Centerville now goes on to face Lone Star of Livermore National tomorrow evening at 5:45 at the Dublin Sports Grounds. The winner of that contest plays Romley's Padres of Pleasanton National and must beat them twice to advance to the finals Saturday.

It was Livermore American's second loss in the double-elimination tournament.

Bob Thompson had three hits for the losers, including a double in the seventh inning which led to the Association's lone run. Mike Hiles dorve in Thompson with an RBI single.

Centerville's Duane Carnes tripled and single to drive in two runs, Lloyd Brown singled twice, Tony Brown had two hits and an RBI and Wayne Russell doubled, singled, and drove in a run.

Bud Lofton was the winning pitcher.

Falcons upset Livermore

Using a balanced attack, Pleasanton-Foothill took a decisive 57-44 upset victory over Livermore in Allied Brokers Summer Basketball League action last night at Amador Valley High School in Pleasanton.

The game was close after the first quarter with Pleasanton leading just 12-10, but the Falcons gradually began to work for the inside shot and increased its lead to 26-20 at halftime.

Mike Buckley fired in 12 points in the second half as Pleasanton-Foothill took control of the game. Buckley led all scorers with 18 points on seven field goals and four out of five free throws.

Teammate Rick Rosenbach added 15 markers on six field goals and three out of four free throws.

Pleasanton-Foothill led 39-31 after three quarters, but Livermore closed to 43-39 with 3:40 left in the game on two inside jump shots.

Brian Schweiger led Livermore with 11 points on five field goals and a free throw. Bob Bolen and John Farfan each added ten markers for the Cowboys.

Some clutch free throw shooting by Buckley and Rosenbach in the final three minutes cinched the game for Pleasanton-Foothill.

In the earlier game, Hayward outlasted a stubborn Dublin squad, 50-42, behind the one-man scoring effort of Jeff Kinmen. He tallied 19 points on five field goals and nine out of 13 charity tosses.

Hayward led, 17-10, after the first half, but Dublin swished the nets for 21 markers while Hayward notched 19 in the third quarter.

Dan Pearson led the Gaels with nine markers.

Managerial switch

A club spokesman announced Monday the California Angels fired manager Norm Sherry (left) and hired third base coach Dave Garcia (right) to replace him. Executive Vice-President Harry Dalton of the club said Garcia's contract will extend through 1978.

Garvey leads National ballots

NEW YORK — Steve Garvey, the slugging first baseman of the Los Angeles Dodgers, became the first player to receive more than four million votes in leading the balloting for the National League All-Star team, announced Monday by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Garvey, winner of the Most Valuable Player Award in the 1974 Game when he made the NL team as a write-in candidate, was selected as a starter for the fourth straight year. He received 4,277,735 votes in the fan balloting, breaking the record of 3,497,358 set by Oakland outfielder Reggie jackson in 1974.

Chosen with Garvey to the starting team were second baseman Joe Morgan, shortstop Dave Concepcion, outfielder George Foster and catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds, third baseman Ron Cey of Los Angeles, and outfielders Greg Luzinski of the Philadelphia Phillies and Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Over-all, a record 12,562,476 ballots were tabulated, more than four million above the previous mark of 8,370,145 set last year.

The American League starters will be announced Tuesday, and the reserves and pitchers for both clubs will be named later in the week, by the managers— Sparky Anderson of Cincinnati and Billy Martin of the New York Yankees.

The 48th All-Star Game will be played July 19th at New York's Yankee Stadium.

In addition to Garvey, four National League players received more than three million votes.

Morgan, a seven-time AllStar and a starter for the sixth year in a row, was runner-up with 3,309,754 votes. Bench, the only player to be chosen as a starter in each of the eight years of fan balloting, was named to the All-Star team for the ninth time, with 3,262,680 votes.

Charlie Brown sweeps three

Charlie Brown's Realtor's swept Covac in a three-game Senior Babe Ruth series over the weekend at Granada High School in Livermore.

Saturday, Mike Krikorian bested Tom Alford in a tight pitching duel, 3-1, Krikorian allowed only two hits and struck out 11 men, while Alford tielded four hits and fanned seven.

Steve Cox and John Bachleda drove in the runs for the winners.

The Realtors won Sunday's first game, 5-1, behind Cox's masterful one-hitter, striking out 15 batters. The only hit off Cox was an infield grounder in which the runner was called safe at first base on a very close play in the fifth inning.

Bob Parness absorbed the loss for Covac, surrendering eight hits and striking out 11 batters.

Cox also contributed two hits, while Krikorian had a pair of singles. Mike Rohrer doubled in three trips to the plate.

Sunday's second game saw Charlie Brown send 19 batters to the plate in the first inning in an 18-3 swamp.

Mike Morkowski tripled and singled in one inning and drove in five runs. Krikorian singled twice in the same inning to drive in two runs and had three hits on the day and six RBI's. Cox added two hits.

Bachleda was the winning pitcher.

Bill Jespersen went 3-for-3 for Covac and Dean Batchelor tripled and singled for the losers.

Giants win, 5-1

SAN DIEGO — Catcher Marc Hill drove in two runs Monday night to back rookie left-hander Bob Knepper's pitching as the San Francisco Giants posted their sixth straight victory with a 5-1 verdict over the San Diego Padres.

Knepper, with relief help from Randy Moffitt, improved his record to 3-3 after holding the Padres to one run and eight hits through 61-3 innings.

The Giants took a 2-0 lead in the second inning off Shirley as Hill and Knepper both stroked RBI singles. San Francisco extended its lead to 3-0 in the third when Jack Clark led off with a walk, advanced to third on Willie McCovey's single and scored on Vic Harris' ground single to left.

Livermore 13's top Hayward

It was sweet revenge for Livermore in a resounding 13-5 victory over Hayward National in District Five Babe Ruth 13's All-star play last night at Amador Valley High School.

The tournament continues this week, with finals slated for 3 p.m. Saturday.

Cub bats silent in IOF loss

SAN FRANCISCO — Unable to solve I.O.F hurler Bobby Paul until too late, he Tri-Valley Cubs had an off-day of hitting and fell to the Forresters, 5-2, Sunday at Nealen Field in Golden Gate Park.

The Cubs, who have yet to win a Northern California Baseball Association League contest but are still floating around the .500 mark overall (13-15-1), rceived a fine pitching performance from John Prieto, who went the distance.g "We played a good game, and Prieto pitched a good game," commented manager Brian Billy. "He was making them hit the ball on the ground. It was just little tiny mistakes that break us every time."

Although the Cubs have lost seven league encounters, nearly all of them have been by three runs or less, and three have been one-run decisions.

They'll try again next Sunday with a doubleheader at the Dublin Sports Grounds against San Francisco's Galu Realty, beginning at 11:00.

The Forresters took a 3-0 lead with a single run in the fourth and a pair of runs in the fifth, only one of them earned.

Freddie Reid led off the fourth with a walk, but was thrown out stealing by catcher Mike Cary on a rifle throw. With one out, Rich Mitchell reached on an error by third-baseman Bob Stoddard.

Mitchell stole second and went to third when the ball rolled into centerfield. He scored on a two-out single by Henry Scott.

Jerry Bledsoe singled to lead off the fifth, and Ed Gersich reached safely when Prieto chose to field his sacrifice bunt and throw to second in a late attempt to get Bledsoe.

After Darryl Harris grounded out, Bledsoe scored when he stole third and came home on the wild throw. Gersich made it 3-0 on Dean Hardin's base hit.

The Cubs, who went six innings without a hit after Stoddard's single in the second, finally touched Paul for a safety in the eighth.

Dave Manousos led off the two-run rally by reaching via an error by shortstop Reid, putting him at second base after Reid's wild throw. With one out, Jim Florence lined a shit into shallow left field, which leftfielder Mitchell charged too quickly on and the ball rolled by him for a triple, scoring Manousos.

Florence came home to make it 3-2 on Bob Chapman's sacrifice fly to deep centerfield.

The only other Tri-Valley hit off Paul was by Scott Ellis on a two-out, first-inning single.

Manousos was the first Cub reach second base in the eighth.

Paul struck out seven and walked only one, retiring 11 in succession at one point. Prieto, meanwhile, allowed just six hits, all singles, while giving up one earned run and striking out eight. He walked one batter.

I.O.F added insurance runs in the eighth on a Reid single and a pair of erros by Tri-Valley which sent him to third. Reid came home on a deep fly out by Scott, while Rich Mitchell reached on a fielder's choice, went to second on an infield out, and scored when the throw from the outfield on Scott's fly ball bounced out of play.

Livermore wins

Jack Trudeau struck out nine and walked two for Livermore's Babe Ruth All-stars while Terry Jacob hit a two-run homer in the first inning to give Livermore a 9-0 win over Dublin.

Pat Fallon also homered and singled while Jeff Hoffman and Rich Mueller also singled home tallies. Eddie Polaske had two hits for Dublin.

Reed takes over

Willis Reed, left, gives a few ball-handling pointers to Eugene Short, the 6-foot-7 forward from Jackson State Monday at the new York Knicks Training Camp at Monmouth College, West Long Branch, N.J. Short was the first round draft choice of the Knicks in 1975. Reed made his formal debut as coach Monday.

Since joining the Pirates in mid-season, Jim Fegosi is doing quite well.

Fregosi seeing plenty of action

PITTSBURGH — Jim Fregosi's 17-year big league baseball career hasn't been all glitter and gold, but the diamond ring he wears certainly is.

"My World Series ring," he says.

What? In his years with the California Angels, New York Mets and Texas Rangers, Fregosi never played on better than a third-place team.

"I was never in the Series, so I went out and got my own ring," says the one-time teenaged phenom, now a 35-year-old reserve with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I bought the diamond from a jeweler, designed the ring myself and a guy in Chicago made it for me about four years ago."

The 18-karat gold ring doesn't have a "World Series" inscription, but Fregosi hopes to earn one that does with Pittsburgh, which got him in an unglamorous June trade that sent Ed Kirkpatrick to Texas.

It was expected Fregosi would play sparingly here.

Yet he's been in 18 of Pittsburgh's 26 games since arriving, starting 11 of them at first base because of injuries to Willie Stargell.

He's batting .325 as a Pirate with 13 hits in 40 at bats, and he has 10 RBIs, two of them on a triple Sunday that helped Pittsburgh complete a sweep of Philadelphia.

"Bench me or trade me," Fregosi deadpanned recently to Manager Chuck Tanner after playing several games in a row.

"Chuck knows I was kidding. He knows I have a wierd sense of humor," Fregosi said at his locker stall.

Indeed, Fregosi and Tanner are no strangers. They both played in 1961 with the Dallas-Forth Worth farm club of the Los Angeles Angels, and they spent time together with the Angels late that season.

Tanner was at the end of his playing career. Fregosi was a highly-regarded young shortstop.

"You could tell even then that Chuck was going to be a big league manager," said Fregosi. "He was a player at Dallas-Forth Worth, but he kind of ran the team."

Fregosi made the American League All-Star team six times in his 10-year career as a shortstop with the Angels.

After the 1971 season, the New York Mets, desperate for a third baseman, lured him from the Angels for four players, including a young pitcher with a strong arm.

That pitcher, Nolan Ryan, has become the strikeout sensation of baseball. Fregosi fizzled with the Mets.

He batted .232 in 1972 and halfway through the next season he was sold to the Rangers, with whom spent the past 3½ seasons as utility man.

"When I played for the Angels, I was kind of on top of things, everything was relatively easy," Fregosi said.

"But when you hit the skids, which I kind of did for a year and a half in New York, you learn to appreciate the good times that much more.

"I've spent over half my life in baseball, and I still get excited.

"I've gotten a little sore doing this much playing, but it's a good sore. Playing is the fun part of this game."

Atkinson-Noll trial underway

SAN FRANCISCO — Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Chuck Noll has stuck George Atkinson of the Oakland Raiders with a label that will follow him the rest of his life, a federal court jury was told Monday.

In opening arguments at Atkinson's $2 million slander suit against Noll and the Steelers, attorney Willie Brown said Noll was wrong to say that Atkinson tackled Steeler Lynn Swann with an intent to maim and was part of a criminal element in professional football.

"George Atkinson will indicate to you that he is no angel and no saint, but also that he is not a criminal element out to maim. He is hurt and embarrassed by Mr. Noll's statement almost on a daily basis."

"The clarity of what occurred is equalled only by its ferocity," responded Steeler attorney James Martin MacInnis. "It was intentional."

The suit stems from an incident in a September, 1976, football game in which Swann was injured when hit viciously by Atkinson. A five-woman, one-man civil jury was seated before U.S. District Judge Samuel Conti to hear the case, expected to take two to three weeks.

Two days after Swann was injured, Noll told newsmen in Pittsburgh:

"You have a criminal element in every society and apparently we have it in the NFL, too. George Atkinson's hit on Lynn Swann was with intent to maim and not with football in mind. I'd like to see those guys thrown out of the leauge. They put a guy's whole career in jeopardy."

Brown charged the remarks were a "calculated, deliberate act ... made knowing they were totally false or with utter disregard for whether or not they were false."

MacInnis responded that Noll spoke the truth and does not apologize for the remarks. He called them "temperate — not at all defamatory of Mr. Atkinson.

"We will show you he was not damaged. The publicity which ensued would have ensued if Mr. Noll has made no remarks at all," he added, saying Atkinson had a reputation for violence well before the incident.

Also at issue in the trial is a $1 million counterclaim filed by the Steelers for Swann's injuries inflicted by Atkinson, a nine-year veteran defensive back.

Witnesses at the trial will include NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, Oakland Owner Al Davis, Oakland Coach John Madden and players Bubba Smith, Ken Stabler, Fred Biletnikoff, Lance Alworth, Franco Harris, Terry Bradshaw, Rocky Bleier, Noll, Swann and Atkinson.

"We are going to address ourselves to what is called football in our society," Brown told the jury. "We will try to show you that football is a violent, physical contact sport, rough, tough, physical injury-producing, a legally approved method of combat...

Dublin edges in Dublin - San Ramon scored two runs in the bottom of the eighth inning to overcome Accurate Refrigeration of Hayward, 2-1, in Senior Babe Ruth action Sunday.

After Hayward broke a scoreless tie with a run in the top of the eighth on Jim Beamon's RBI single, the winners came back to score two and take the win.

Gary Reshes began the comeback with a slashing double for his second hot and fourth time on base for the day. Winning pitcher Bob Richardson then singled to send Reshes to third, while Mark Martin drove Reshes home with a game-tying single.

John Amador was safe on a sacrifice bunt to load the bases, and Scott Speer smashed a one-out single to score Martin with the winning run.

Richardson struck out ten batters and allowed only five hits.

Auction drew well, racing a record

One-hundred twenty eight more buyers than last year!

That's the initial report from a rousing Junior Livestock Auction finale to the 65th Alameda County Fair.

Auction organizers were still toting-up the number of livestock purchased, the respective prices per pound, and the top 4-H and FFA price-getters last night. When all is tabulated later today, its liable to fill a small book.

The carnival area and exhibit halls were still in the process of being cleaned up long after most exhibitors had moved on to the next stop on the fair circuit, the Sonoma County Fair in Santa Rosa.

However, attendance, parimutuel and participation marks are not likely to be threatened by anything short of the Los Angeles County Fair or Cal Expo.

The Fair Association reported Monday a grand total attendance for 15 days of 402,822, or an average of 26,800 a day.

For the first time in Alameda County Fair racing history, the average daily parimutuel handle topped $1 million. The final wagering total for the '77 meet was $12,934,382, up 9.34 per cent from the previous record in '75 of $11,828,590.

The individual single day record was broken once again on the final day of the meeting Saturday with $1,581,522 being wagered. A crowd of 16,199 attended getaway day. Friday's figures were $1,069,929 and a crowd of 9,962.

Fairgrounds attendance for each of the weekend days was as follows: 22,788, Friday; 34,802, Saturday; 28,285, Sunday.

Fair Association directors, administration and participants generally felt the fair rebounded extraordinarily from a dismal two-week run in '76 hampered by pickets and a lack of racing.

Total attendance last year was 221,875.

Livermore and Pleasanton 4-H and FFA members took most of the beef and sheep showmanship awards presented.

Todd Bettencourt of Livermore won a master showmanship award. A similar honor was accorded Jamie Silva of Newark.

Winners of beef showmanship in order of placing were: Marcus Galvan, Fremont; B.J. Thomas, Pleasanton; Frank Toledo, Pleasanton; Pat Lund, Pleasanton; Jim Foscalina, Livermore; John Foscalina, Livermore; Vic Lund, Pleasanton; Jim Wells, Livermore; Steve Jensen; Joan Madsen, Livermore; Betty Harmoney, Castro Valley; Kathy Johnson, Sunol.

Sheep showmanship winners in order of placing were:

Phyllis Costello, Tracy; Jim Foscalina, Livermore; Debbie Petersen, Pleasanton; Mel Silva, Newark; Jim Wells, Livermore; Sandy Wardlaw, Livermore; Dan Borba, Hayward; Marsha Kobles; Karen Jones, Tracy; Pete Bailey, Pleasanton; Terry Campiotti, Pleasanton; Len Catania, Fremont.

Valley students won three firsts and two seconds in the Vocational Education Olympics held during the Fair.

Nadine Jacobs of Dublin High placed first in bachelor meals, Rene Coronado of Granada first in stenography and Pat Aquino of Dublin first in typewriting - timed writing.

Seconds were garnered by Jeff Olinghouse of Amador - Livermore ROP in automotive body repairs and Debbie Koski of Livermore High in hairstyling.

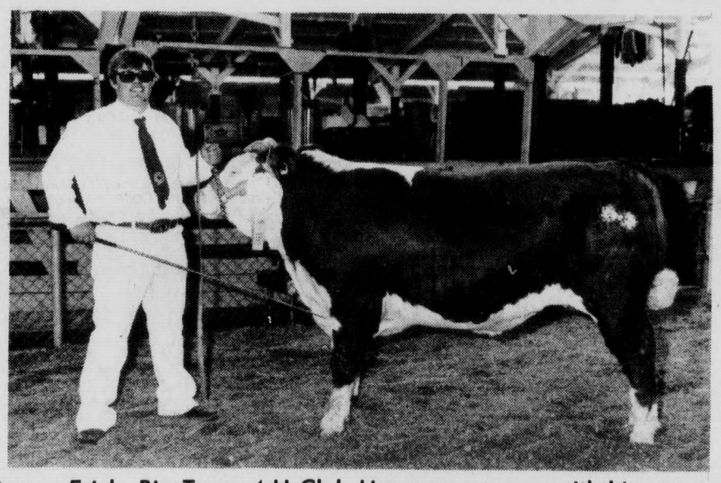

The Valley will also be sending the third straight Maid of Alameda County to the State Fair in August. Jori Alexander of Pleasanton will vie for the state title at Cal Expo on Friday and Saturday, Aug. 19 and 20.

Dr. Joyce Brothers

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I've been having trouble with impotence and it's unusual for me. My wife is patient but I'm ashamed and worred that it will be permanent. I'm only 30. Two friends suggested I take vitamin E. They swear it helped them, but so far, it's done nothing for me. My boss suggested I try buying sex but I'm afraid I'll pick up a disease. Maybe I'm afraid of failing there too. I love my wife and I can't destroy our marriage. If I went to a prostitute and she learned about it, I'd really be in trouble. — C.C.

DEAR C.C.: If vitamin E worked for your friends, the benefits were probably psychological. In other words, if it gave them confidence, then it may have helped, but the vitamin itself had nothing to do with it. Three medical researchers who investigated claims that vitamin E, or any other vitamin, restored flagging male sexual performance say beneficial results are only in the mind.

Impotence affects almost all men at certain times, often at periods of unusual stress on the job. Overwork, anxiety about money, too much ambition or general ill health can all reduce sexual drive. Women who push their husbands in their career or who nag them can also contribute to the man's sexual difficulties.

Psychological causes include deterioration of a relationship, an unresponsive or disinterested partner, fear, anger, guilt, depression and sexual misinformation.

Simply evaluating the situation helps some couples. The most important factor is to improve communication with your wife and try to reduce your anxiety. Don't force yourself to do what you don't feel like doing. You don't have to perform sexually at any specific time to prove yourself as a male. Try touching and tenderness without emphasis on sex. You might even deliberately avoid sex for a period and use other methods to stimulate and reassure each other of your love.

Remember, your problem is not unusual and in all probability is only temporary.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm beginning to worry about a slight problem of impotency. I mean, I have had more of a problem over the past five years than I ever had. My wife thinks it's because I drink too much, but she's become neurotic about alcohol since she gave it up. I don't drink much more than I ever have. It never bothered me before. Why should it now? — J.P.

DEAR J.P.: It's quite possible that your tolerance for alcohol has lessened. This isn't unusual. Many people who prided themselves on drinking a good deal without any visible effects find that they can no longer do this. They may be quite intoxicated after a relatively small amount of alcohol. This change can occur at any time in one's life.

While it's true that alcohol can help people relax and break down some inhibitions, after the first few drinks the sedative nature of alcohol begins to take effect. At that point, it dulls sensations and tends to make people sleepy.

Masters and Johnson found that excessive drinking was the second most important factor associated with the preponderant type of impotence.

It would certainly be worthwhile to try to cut down on your drinking for several months and see if there's any difference.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Rarely does one hear of the cause and effect of a "high pulse rate." This is my problem. My occupation involves office work and some tension and pressure are to be expected. I have gained excess weight from not being as active as I was in my previous occupation. Every time I get overanxious or make a trip to my doctor I get all nervous and my heart seems to beat more rapidly.

Recently I had a physical which was necessary to secure life insurance. My doctor explained to me that this condition might be normal for me but the insurance company didn't like it. If this condition was cause for any great concern, or indicated some serious impending illness, why didn't my doctor prescribe some medical treatment?

My insurance company informed me that I have a physical problem and that my premium would cost more than a well or normal person. Needless to say this has disturbed me and I would like to understand more about the nature of this condition.

DEAR READER — Insurance companies write policies on the basis of statistics rather than individuals. The truth is that as a group, individuals with a resting heart rate higher than 80 beats per minute have several times the likelihood of having a heart attack or dropping dead as do people with a resting heart rate below 70.

The reasons though are that a lot of those people with higher resting heart rates have them from smoking cigarettes, which can increase the rate 10 to 20 beats per minute, drinking coffee or being in poor physical condition. Cigarettes and obesity with poor physical fitness also increase your risk of a heart attack and it is reflected in the high heart rates.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-8 Your Heart Rate: What It Means.

astrograph

July 12, 1977

This coming year you may be able to rework or revise something you had tagged as unproductive. Don't give up on a project in which you've invested a lot of time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Gentle tactics won't suffice today in trying to collect on a long-standing debt. You can be firm without being too demanding. To find out more of what lies ahead for you send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A friend is mismanaging something. You should try to get him back on an even keel, using as much tact as possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There are career opportunities today, but you may have to expose a nonproducer to gain them. You can cover for a goldbrick only so long.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Should your friends have better ideas than you do today, don't try to shoot these down just because you didn't come up with them first.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In commercial dealings today, your position may be stronger than you realize. Don't be afraid to dicker if you don't like the first price.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In one-to-one relationships today, things may not be settled as ideally as you hoped. Be pragmatic enough to accept that you can't always have your own way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Some sacrifice may be necessary today in an area where you felt most of the burdens would fall on others. It's essential to your success.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Manage your own affairs today if you expect desirable results. Entrusting things to others leaves too many loose ends.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Matters that affect the family today must be handled for the good of everyone, not just to pacify a particular member.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Decisions today should be based on reality and logic. There's a possibility wishful thinking could enter in if you'd let it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An unbudgeted, but necessary, household expense may come up today. You can't avoid it, but you can keep the cost down by shopping wisely.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may be anxious to discuss a serious matter with friends today. Don't confide in one who has twisted your words in the past.

East was really on the horns of a dilemma. He knew that his partner had opened a singleton diamond. He could lead back his 10 of diamonds to ask for a heart return and his ace of hearts would be the third defensive trick. Then he would lead another diamond. West would not be able to ruff and declarer would promptly double finesse trumps and pick up that nice guarded queen-jack.

So, after mature cogitation East played his ace of hearts and then gave his partner the diamond ruff.

East was a good young California player, but unfortunately South was John Rau, who had just retired and moved to California from New York.

John quit tournament bridge 40 years ago after having won a couple of national championships, but he is taking it up as a retiree.

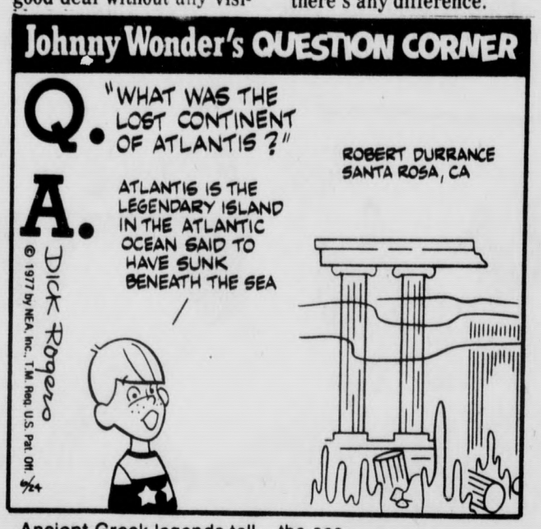

He looked over at East, decided that East knew what he was doing when he cashed the heart ace, worked out what had gone through East's mind and proceeded to take the double finesse in trumps in spite of East's try and was rewarded with a very nice match-point score.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHAT WAS THE LOST CONTINENT OF ATLANTIS?"

ROBERT DURRANCE
SANTA ROSA, CA

A. ATLANTIS IS THE LEGENDARY ISLAND IN THE ATLANTIC OCEAN SAID TO HAVE SUNK BENEATH THE SEA

Ancient Greek legends tell of a lost island, or continent, called Atlantis.

It was supposed to have been a very large island located in the Atlantic Ocean, somewhere west of the Pillars of Hercules (now called Gibraltar).

The legends tell that Atlantis was a powerful kingdom whose great armies conquered many countries around the Mediterranean Sea about 12,000 years ago.

Only the ancient Greeks of Athens were able to defeat the armies of Atlantis.

Later, great earthquakes and storms destroyed the island because—the legends say—the people of Atlantis had become evil. It sank into the sea.

Only the tops of mountains were thought to mark the spot where Atlantis once existed.

The legends have fascinated many people over the centuries. Even today there are people who believe there was such a place. Many have tried to find the fabled island of Atlantis, but its ruins have never been located.

Robert Young Has No Plans to Retire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When talk arises about retirement, Robert Young cites the case of Leopold Stokowski, the venerable symphonic conductor.

"I saw him on television when he was celebrating his 94th birthday," said the actor. "He had just signed a five-year contract as a conductor. If Stokowski can do that at 94, why should I think of retiring when I'm only 70?"

And so the star of "Father Knows Best," "Marcus Welby, M.D." and movies that date back to 1931 is working on projects that will stretch four or five years into the future. This despite the fact that he and Betty Young, his wife for 44 years, have a spanking new house at Westlake Village, a planned community 30 minutes northwest of Hollywood. They also have a home at Rancho Santa Fe near San Diego and could spend their years in quiet enjoyment of their six grandchildren.

Instead, Bob Young intends to remain active. "After all," he remarked with a wry grin, "I didn't really grow up until I was 59."

Until that time, he considers that he was "childishly scared by everything." The result was a bout with alcoholism that is now behind him. Until recently, he endured another handicap: Gradual loss of sight because of eye cataracts. After two separate operations, the last one in December, his sight has been restored by artificial lenses.

Young first realized his sight problem 19 years ago.

"I had been flying my own plane for 11 years and never needed glasses," he said.

"I made a flight to San Diego one day, and when I got back I realized the fun had gone out of flying. I had made too many radio calls, scanned the horizon too many times."

An examination revealed that he had the beginnings of cataracts. The loss of sight over the years was so gradual that the actor hardly noticed it — "it was like looking at the world through a dirty window."

Inside China today

Taiwan: a stumbling block

By DEAN S. LESHER
Publisher

The question of normalization diplomatic relations between China and the United States is apparently given top priority by both nations.

We heard several presentations on this by top level leaders of the People's Republic of China while we were in Peking. Vice Premier Li Hsien - nien, one of the highest officials in the Communist Party and in the government, and an old comrade and trusted friend of former Chairman Mao, stated the situation emphatically in our two hour interview with him in a room in the Great Hall of the People.

The People's Republic of China is firm in stating that it will not have normal diplomatic relations with the United States until three things happen with respect to Taiwan (The Republic of China):

1. The United States must abrogate (terminate) its existing treaties with Taiwan;

2. The United States must withdraw its troops from Taiwan and its naval vessels from the straits between Taiwan and mainland China; and

3. The United States must withdraw diplomatic recognition of Taiwan as an independent nation and must recognize it solely as a province of China, belonging to mainland China.

There seems to be no doubt that this is a rigid position on the part of the People's Republic of China. Just how much bargaining room remains with respect to protection of foreign investments in Taiwan and protection of the health and welfare of the Chinese on Taiwan, remains to be seen.

The vice premier indicated that there were certain areas for negotiation, but that these would be narrow in scope.

Premier Lu Hsien - nien is a rather handsome man who is alert and articulate. While he spoke to our delegation through an interpreter, the answers indicated a man with a considerable grasp of the subject of economics and of China's relations with other nations.

That he is considered the top authority on economics was told us on numerous occasions by the seven Chinese from the Foreign Ministry who accompanied us through our 23 day visit to China.

Vice Premier Li began by saying that the United States is a great country, and the American people are a fine people. He said that our two nations should be friendly.

He mentioned that the prime interest of both our countries is to promote world peace and world trade.

He spoke rather calmly but harshly about the U.S. support of Chiang Kai Shek at the end of World War II. He said that this created some bitter feelings within China.

After expressing this, he said that this happened 30 years ago, that it is in the past and that we should go forward into the future without wasting time talking about the past. He did say that it is well to study history in order to better understand the present and to be able to predict the future.

With respect to Taiwan, he said this is the chief problem which must be settled before China and the United States can have full diplomatic relations and any real commerce and trade.

He mentioned a number of international declarations and proclamations, some of them signed by the United States, which state quite clearly that Taiwan is a province of China and as such should be governed by the government of mainland China. He mentioned that President Nixon, in the Shanghai Communique at the end of his visit to China in 1972, said unequivocally that Taiwan is a province of China.

The Republic of China (Taiwan) agrees that Taiwan is an island province of China. Thus, both the People's Republic and Taiwan agree on this.

The disagreement between them is as to who or which is to govern all of China. As a practical matter, it is obvious that the 930 million to 950 million Chinese on the mainland have a better claim to govern all of China, including the province of Taiwan, than do the 16 million to 18 million Chinese on Taiwan.

The official position of the People's Republic of China is that Taiwan is an integral part of China and that it is a matter of its own internal affairs as to how the People's Republic of China will deal with Taiwan. The Chinese officials resent any "outside interference." They refuse to discuss how they will settle this internal problem themselves.

I have an impression gathered from this interview with the vice premier and a similar interview with the vice foreign minister the day before, that the Chinese will probably resolve this problem of Taiwan peacefully. I also have the impression that foreign investments will not be distributed by the People's Republic of China for a number of years.

Some of us have a rather distinct feeling that the People's Republic of China may treat Taiwan somewhat the way it treats Hong Kong.

China could have taken over Hong Kong any hour during the last 28 years. It can still do so. All China has to do is to shut off the water supply of Hong Kong, and Hong Kong will fall to its knees within a few weeks. Hong Kong cannot exist without the approval of China.

It may be that the People's Republic of China will decide to permit foreign investments to continue in Taiwan for many years. In doing this, it could adopt the policy it had in 1949 of permitting privately owned factories to continue to do business in China. About seven or eight years thereafter, the Chinese government became a partner in the operation of these factories and then in the 1960's took full possession and ownership awarding private compensation to the owners for their property.

If the People's Republic of China decides to adopt this attitude toward Taiwan, China can operate private industry and thereby build up its hard currency in the same way that it gets hard currency from the west through the retail outlets it owns and controls in Hong Kong.

Vice Premier Li asked us not to judge China and its development by what we have in the United States. He said it is unfair to China to do this.

When you compare China, its progress and its development, he asked us to use what is taking place in other Asian countries as a standard of comparison.

There was a well defined plea in his voice as he said that China is admittedly backward economically. China is striving mightily to improve its situation and is doing so year after year.

What he was asking from us is patience in judging what they are doing now. He wants us to keep abreast of the progress they are making, however slow it may seem to us to be, and to give them credit for this progress.

He shares the opinion of many Chinese that Russia may sometime try to move into China. However, he emphasized that Russia is looking toward Europe first, and that the United States should be prepared to stand shoulder to shoulder with its European allies whenever Russia moves aggressively to take over all, or any part, of Europe.

Vice Premier Li touched our hearts when he told of the tremendous daily struggle the Chinese are making to improve their standard of living. It is a nationwide program that does arouse your sympathy.

Guidelines for vocational education at Valley Campus

A major review of vocational education was announced Monday by the state Board of Education and the Community College Board of Governors.

The review is the latest step in changes that began in the fall of 1976 when new federal legislation required the preparation of a 5-year state plan for vocational education. The plan has now been approved and sent to Washington.

The thorough review will involve the responsibilities of the Board of Education and the community colleges to prevent duplication of vocational education programs, the funding to school districts and community colleges, and the over-all manaement of vocational education in the state.

Marion Drinker, president of the state Board of Education, and Tom Jones, chairman of the Community College Board of Governors said, "We must improve vocational education to help students understand the responsibilities of working and earning a living in our society. We must also make sure that students receive the skills that are needed in today's changing job markets."

The review will also reflect the new regulations in the federally required 5-year plan for vocational education that calls for: targeting areas of high unemployment and large numbers of low income families; overcoming sex bias and stereotyping, and developing new programs to meet new skills and job opportunities.

A steering group will make recommendations for improving vocational education. The group includes the president and three members of the state Board of Education, the chair and three members of the Community College Board of Governors, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the Chancellor of the Community Colleges.

With the assistance of an ad hoc working group, the steering committee will make recommendations to the state Board of Education and the Community College Board of Governors.

The boards may then consider recommending legislation that will set a comprehensive statewide policy for vocational education. The legislation would also, for the first time, put a definition of the purpose of vocational education, the funding methods, and regulations in state law.

Currently, vocational education is operated under federal regulations. The working group will include people from labor, industry, all levels of education, and the California Advisory Council on Vocational Education and Technical Training.

Character building in class

By ROBERT McEWEN
Associated Press Writer

MODESTO (AP) — Johnny goes to school one day and finds he doesn't have enough money for lunch. But he sees a classmate with a wad of bills bulging from a pocket.

Johhny should (a) roll his classmate. (b) go hungry. (c) assume the other boy would be as generous as himself in the same situation.

If you answered (a) or (b), you would have a tough time making it through the Modesto school system, where administrators have launched a trendsetting educational program designed to build character as well as academic proficiency.

The situation confronting Johnny is one of many role-playing and story-completion exercises Modesto students will face in coming years.

It is part of a novel program which has captured the attention of educators across the nation and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who said in a speech here in April he had never seen as comprehensive a commitment to excellence.

The program, entitled "Academic Expectations and the Fourth 'R'," — responsibilty — features a two-pronged assault on mediocrity in education by re-establishing standards of minimum competency and enforcing conduct codes.

However, the program's architect, Asst. Supt. Jim Enochs, stresses the intent is not reactionary.

"We're careful about calling it 'back to basics'," he said. "That means a lot of different things to a lot of people. Our program is not a right-wing, heavily religiously infused operation."

It originated when a random sampling of 20 per cent of the district's 110,000 residents showed an overwhelming majority wanted schools to impose stricter discipline and make a greater effort to achieve excellence, Enochs said.

Jackson was so impressed with Modesto's plans that he offered Enochs the job of national director of Project Excel, Jackson's program to upgrade performance in urban school districts across the nation.

The Modesto program is highlighted by three facets: a "character education" pilot program in four of the district's 21 elementary schools, minimum competency tests that began with ninth grade classes last fall and will extend to grades K-8 in September and conduct codes that take effect in the second semester of the coming school year.

It appears likely that this Central California community is only the starting place of the "Fourth R" system. Recently Enochs outlined the program for state education officials and educators from Los Angeles, Oakland, Inglewood, and Sacramento schools called together by Jackson.

"When we laid out the plan, it was pretty clear we were leading the way," Enochs said. "If we were a major urban school district with all the accompanying problems, we could get the federal government to fund this thing for a couple million dollars."

Park district expands holdings in Southern Alameda ridgelands

OAKLAND — East Bay Regional Park District directors went to extremes of user preferences in acquiring two key pieces of land for parkland additions in southern Alameda County.

They reached their decision Tuesday night in Hayward.

After paying $142,000 for a square mile, 640 acres, of "the only pristine wilderness left in the East Bay," they concluded multiple transactions which will add another 132 acres to Fremont's Alameda Creek Quarries Regional Recreation Area.

Acting board President Mary Jefferds pointed out both purchases were directed by the EBRPD 1973 Master Plan. She said the plan is calculated to provide outdoor recreation facilities for those who like wilderness atmosphere and for those who prefer "body-to-body" crowded parks.

The square mile of wilderness land abuts 4,236-acre Rowell ranch property on the west. EBRPD purchased this a year ago for $804,650. It is separated by a mile of San Francisco Water Department land from EBRPD's 3,695-acre Sunol Regional Wilderness.

Looking northeast to the Pleasanton-Livermore area, there is another mile gap to 3,445-acre Del Valle Regional Park. This park property has a five-mile fishing, swimming, boating reservoir.

The high point of this parkland complex is 3,817-foot Rose Peak. It is 32 feet lower than Mount Diablo. This acreage is part of 1,300 square miles of undeveloped lands extending hrough Contra Costa, Alameda and Santa Clara Counties. It is identified as the "ridgelands."

EBRPD directors authorized conditional purchase of 61 acres from Rhodes-Jamieson quarry operators as part of their continuing effort to piece together their urban jigsaw puzzle.

In a companion action, EBRPD entered a joint-use agreement with Alameda County Water District on another 71 acres given by Rhodes-Jamieson for the park. The water district is to reimburse the park district half of the $285,000 purchase price.

An additional 90 acres of Rhodes-Jamieson lands, completing the company's holdings of 222 acres, are under option to Shapell Industries for a proposed residential complex of 250 single family residences, Hornbeck said.

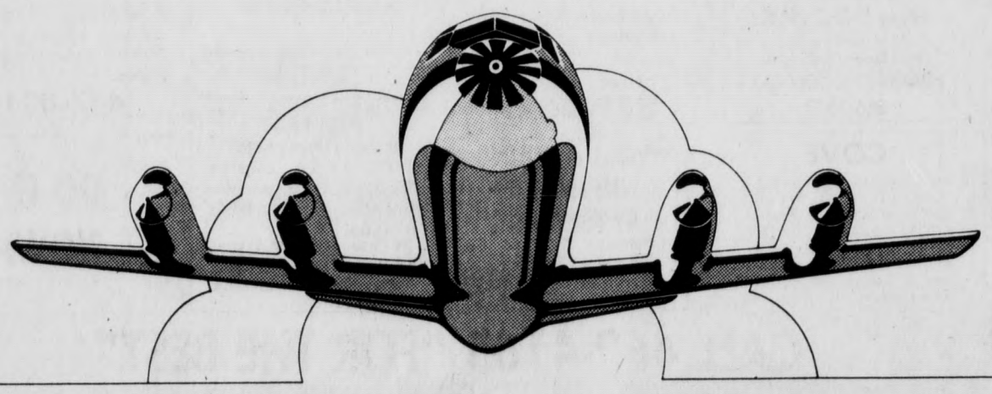

The addition brings the total quarry site acreage to 450.
